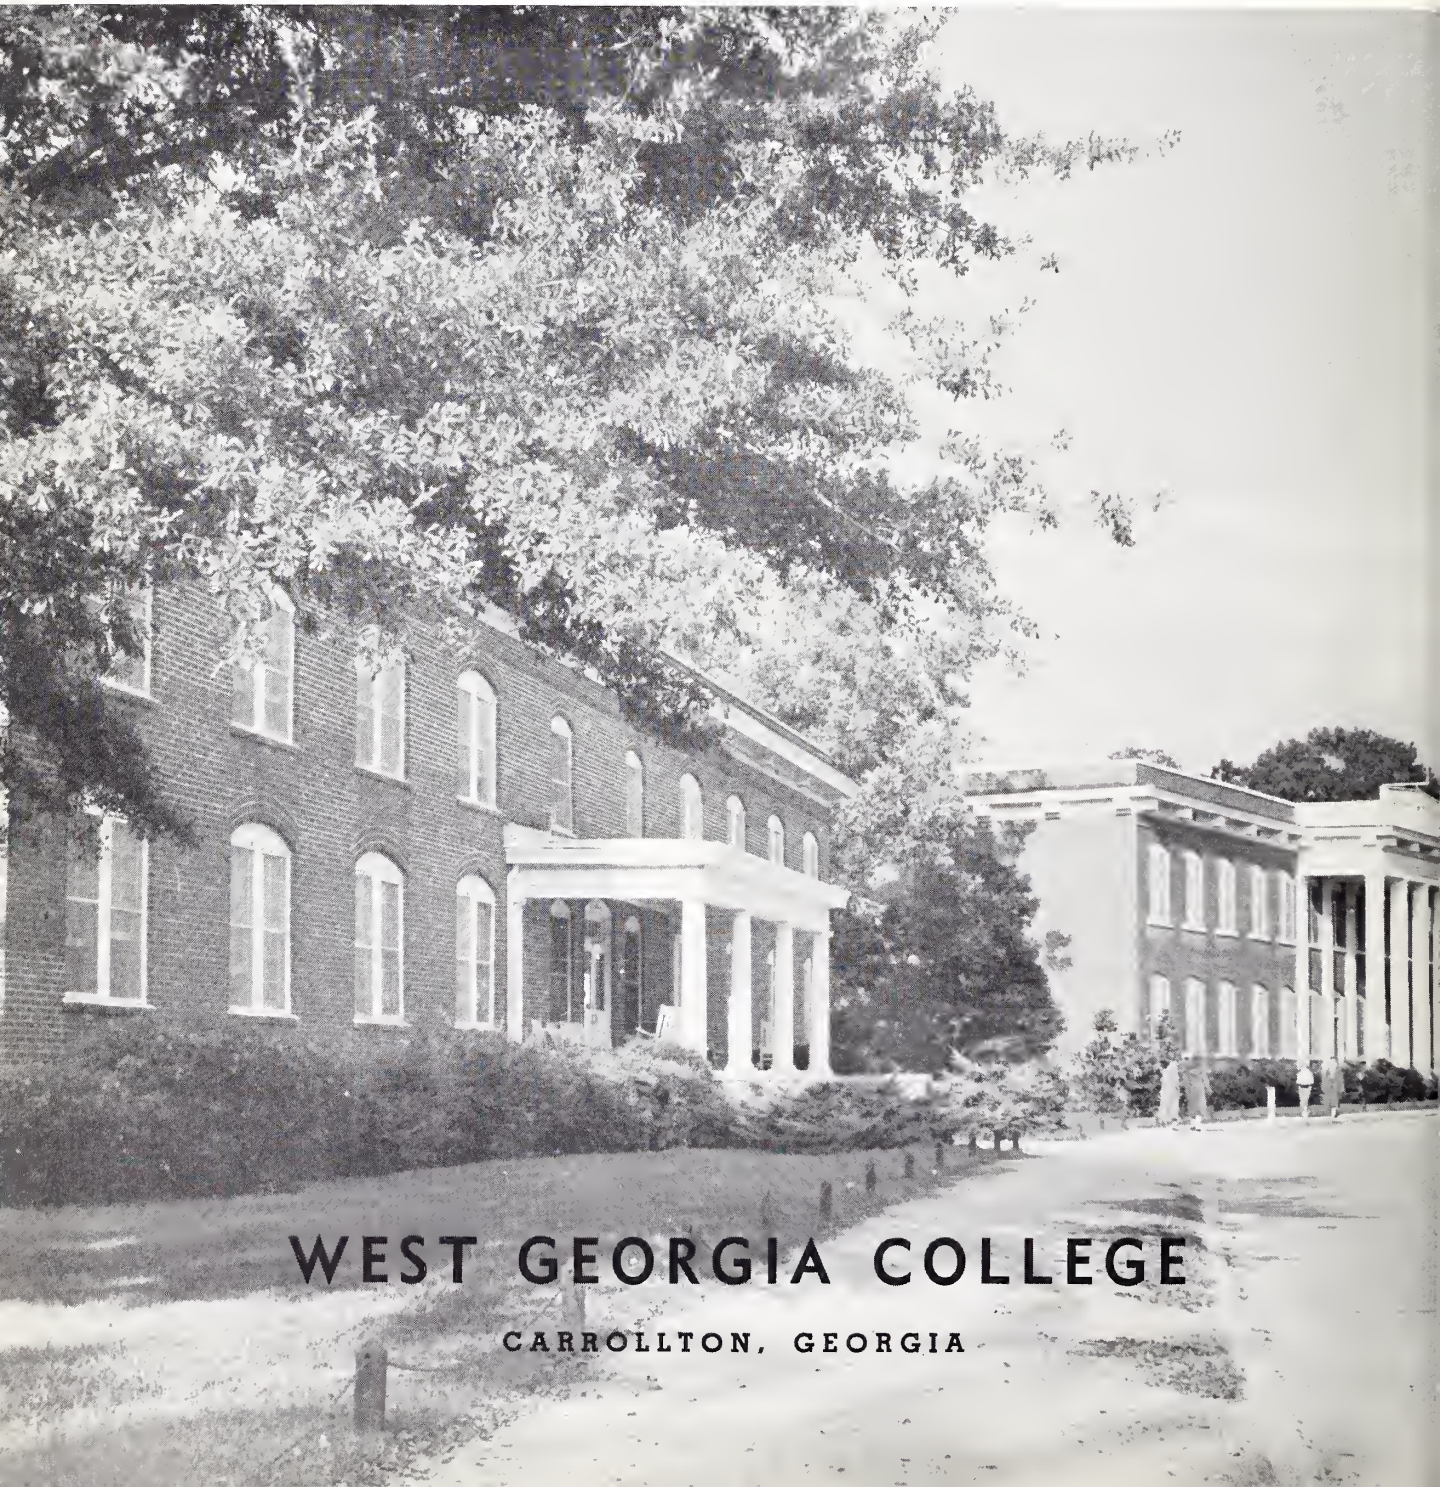
recalls to mind

days passed at . . .



WEST GEORGIA COLLEGE

CARROLLTON, GEORGIA

WHERE THE COMING OF A NEW DAY

brought to light . . .

THE rolling hills . .

THE TRADITIONAL ivy window . . .

THE FAMILIAR gray walks . .

AND THE modern men AND women

who endeavored to attain

THE significant mark

OF A higher education

foreword . . .

Memories are the thoughts of yesterday. They represent the actions of time passed when we were younger and a little more foolish than wise. Memories symbolize the things we were going to do and the things we did. They are passed days of bliss and fantasy when frolic was our candy and work our poison. They are the faded dreams, the lost wishes, and the misplaced intentions.

From all—the sad, the happy, the warm—we grow to realize that every day is a page that soon becomes a book of memories.

The 1957 CHIEFTAIN is a book of memories, our memories of WEST GEORGIA COLLEGE.

WE, THE STUDENTS

MRS. MARY COPELAND

To you, Mrs. Copeland, we wish to express our appreciation for the many years you have spent in service to us and to our college as Assistant to the Registrar and Secretary to the Dean. Thank you for all the endless hours of work and for your cheerful helpfulness that has made ours a finer school.

EXPRESS OUR APPRECIATION.

Mr. Acklen, we wish to pay tribute to you for the years that you have served us as Comptroller. Through your application of the principles of efficient administration, you have assisted in a program which has definitely distinguished West Georgia College as a significant institution of higher learning.

and the "qualities beyond the written page" . . .

. . . AS SPOKEN SO OFTEN BY

HAROLD CLYDE STEELE

a man devoted to his "call" to teach the facts of human biology and the "qualities beyond the written page." Always striving to meet the challenge of perfection in life, he earnestly endeavors to set forth an example of a mature, Christian man.

It is, therefore, with respect and admiration that the 1957 CHIEFTAIN is dedicated to Harold Clyde Steele, our teacher and friend.

The officers of the Junior Class are James Williams, vice-president; Earline Casey, president; Carolyn Thomason, reporter and Mary Jo Bailey, treasurer.

The Sophomores Remember . . .

. . . The heart warming tug of returning to school after a summer of new thrills, to find that West Georgia College had not changed as much as they had changed.

They laughed to themselves as they remembered that it was only a year ago that they arrived as freshmen. How things had changed since then!!

Now, they were looking forward to an eventful year filled with hard studying, new opportunities and all the little things that make college life so wonderful.

The devil's workshop?

We remember . . . those two necessary evils, speed breakers and exams . . . those cutting winter winds and those warm spring days . . . and how we looked forward to week-ends . . .

Proclamation or warning?

. . . Miss Parker, what big eyes you have!! and Mrs. Radcliff, what a pretty hat!! . . . but ladies, what are you doing all dressed up?

When you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot and hang on!!

Poor 'ol kid fought her way through to the post office, but the letter was for "roomy."

How is this for a yawn to break the boredom?

All in the life of a "rat."

The 1957 Chieftain

RECORDS A YEAR AT WEST GEORGIA COLLEGE

Our lights have burned long into the nights; our nerves have run thin; and our ideas have collided, but from it all has come a product of work, sacrifice and compromise, the 1957 Chieftain. We hope that it will be worthy of our time and will be your pride and joy.

Who is she, boys? Someone we know?

You read, I'll study and we will all fail that exam together!

We eat in the morning, we eat at noon, and we eat in the evening . . .

And then we spend all our money on what we eat at night.

A "Rat" and his trap.

All in the cause of humanity.

. . . and we remember how we traveled the worn path to the Coke machine and fed it our nickels as we fed ourselves . . . We remember those exams and those shocking grades but not as shocking as our parents' reactions . . .

We have lived, laughed, and learned as we have spent our days at West Georgia College. We have had our doubts and fulfillments; discouragements and satisfactions. We have had more problems and less sleep than we have had money and spare time, but we have loved every minute of it.

We must leave behind us the familiar gray walks, the ivy windows, the rolling hills, and all the little things that have made West Georgia so close to our hearts. We leave, but we take our memories with us. They are ours to cherish and to be with us always.

"Good-bye and thank you" to all who have made our days worthwhile—our teachers, our administrators, our classmates and
